If the pandemic situation allows, all sessions are open to the public and will take place in Aula 203 at the Arts & Humanities Faculty (Facultat de Filosofia i Lletres), Universitat Autònoma de Barcelona, UAB. This venue is placed in Bellaterra campus (Accessibility info: <https://www.uab.cat/web/about-the-faculty/access-and-maps-1345695633523.html>). All participants must follow the relevant instructions of the university authorities (see: <https://www.uab.cat/web/about-the-uab/itineraries/coronavirus/useful-information-1345809701134.html>). There will not be on-line sessions but, if necessary and possible, some sessions could be postponed to next years.

**Seats will be available on a first-come, first-served, basis. The venue has limited capacity.*

\*Please, before attending a seminar, outside visitors are advised to check the @RicardMoren Twitter account (see: <https://twitter.com/ricardmoren>) in order to confirm details and to take into account possible last minute changes.*

\** If everything goes well, along 2022 the website linked to the UAB-GEO Generators of Research on Migration, GRM (i.e. the Gallery of Research on Migration, GRM) should be available again, once the UAB fully recovers from the massive cyber-attack that this university suffered in Autumn 2021.*

These seminars are mainly co-funded by the UAB Arts & Humanities Faculty and the UAB Geography Department as well as are held within the framework of the ECONECOL Research Group (SGR2017, AGAUR, ref. 01126). Dr Ricard Morén-Alegret is the coordinator of all these seminars, with support from Dr Cristóbal Mendoza in some sessions. The GRM coordinator is grateful to the Dean team of the UAB Arts & Humanities Faculty plus to the Director of the Geography Department for their support.
